Dear Ms Dixon

My Wife and I just recently put money down on property in the town of Pahrump Nevada, a town we both love very much, and because of a medical condition I have, hope soon to move there.

1 I find it hard to believe or even foolish that the D.O.E. or any other Dept of Government would consider storing High Level or even Low Level nuclear waste, in a mountain area like Yucca Mountain, an area of possible earthquakes.

2 The only water for these towns come from underground water sheds. Who would give a 100% guarantee of no possible groundwater contamination.

3 Also the matter of transporting of this material in areas of high populations of people, surely a better solution to this problem of storage might be? storing it where it now is and may be a safer solution.

Thank You
