

DEC 02 1999

MR. HANEY: My name is Nick Haney.

1 MR. HANEY: [When the DOE came to my school, they showed us a picture of where the trucks would be going by, and it showed the trucks would be going by a naval air base bombing site in which the airplanes use heat seeking missiles, and I find that a problem because of the nuclear waste on the back of the trucks, and so when they are going by the bombing site, it's a possibility that the missiles would head for the trucks, and since they are so hot and because of the nuclear waste.

And I understand that the DOE is trying to mitigate problems like this happening, but I don't understand why they have to take risks like this at all.]

2 [I understand nuclear waste is a serious problem, but please don't make Nevada the solution.] Thank you.

①