1 KALYNDA TILGES: Kalynda Tilges, Citizen Alert. The first part on this is something that I hadn't brought up before. All the additional design work in this Supplement is based on the presumption that the proposed regulations will be adopted, thereby regarding once again hundreds, if not thousands, of comments to the contrary.

In the supplemental DEIS the assertions by the Department of Energy of safety, etc., based on guidelines that the public has never seen because they have not been adopted, new guidelines and regulations were proposed. A great number of critical comments were received and nothing has been finalized, yet this Supplemental Draft Environmental Impact Statement asserts that the proposal is safe by these new less rigorous guidelines. The entire process is premature. How can we move forward without final, safe, publicly acceptable guidelines in place? I would like an answer to that.

2 And because I know I've been bad-mouthing you all all night, I do have to be the fair person that I try to be and hold up a copy. This is the size of the public hearing announcement that was in the Las Vegas RJ. Thank you. We're used to all of this information or less being in a much smaller sized area somewhere around the obituary section.

So you're trying. I appreciate that very much. And I was going to come and rip you guys up one side and down the other because of not seeing it, until I saw this. And in all fairness I would like to say good job, guys.

MR. FLAHERTY: Would you like me to submit this for the record?

KALYNDA TILGES: I'm going to frame this. Are you kidding?
